

Elf Frank: Greetings once again from the North Pole news desk, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh of North Pole Radio News. Prancer has been declared healthy and has been released from the care of the Kringle Reindeer Clinic. She will reportedly await the return of Santa's other reindeer. Here to catch us up on all news related to the reindeer is our eye in the sky reporter elf, Crash Murphy who is at the reindeer barn right now. Crash, what's it like over there right now?

Elf Crash: It's kinda lonely, Frank, I think for Prancer, she's the only one here. They brought in a few goats to keep her company but for her sake I hope the other reindeer make it back soon. She's gotta be lonely.

Elf Frank: Have you seen her and talked to Prancer, Crash?

Elf Crash: I have, Frank. When I got here she was, well, prancing about. But she came right up to me and let me give her an apple, you know, peeled just the way she likes it. Prancer is a quiet girl, Frank. So sweet. And deceptively so because she's got a pretty fierce competitive streak, one that a lot of people underestimate. When I look in her eyes, I see fire, Frank. No wonder Santa thinks she's special.

Elf Frank: Doesn't Santa think every reindeer is special?

Elf Crash: He's does, Frank. The big softy.

Elf Frank: Why do you think Santa has such love for animals, Crash?

Elf Crash: He really does, Frank. I think it's not only because he's always been around animals and, in fact, grew up with them. They were his first friends, Frank. Santa once told me that animals are always nicer than a lot of people. And Santa has far more animals than just reindeer, not to take anything away from them. Santa has not only these reindeer barns but he keeps goats, pigs, chickens, cows, dogs, cats, and even mice. He loves animals of all kinds.

Elf Frank: Wow, Crash. Maybe one of these days we can get Santa on the podcast to talk about all his animals and what they all do. Thanks for that report. For North Pole Radio News, where we're glad to hear that Prancer is on the mend, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh reporting for SantaUpdate.com on the Kringle Radio Network.
