Elf Frank Myrrh: Happy Thanksgiving greetings from the North Pole, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh of North Pole Radio News. Santa and Mrs. Claus are taking off for the next week or so to celebrate Thanksgiving in Canada. Joining us from the Office of Mrs. Claus to report on this event is our eye in the sky reporter, Elf Crash Murphy. Crash, why are you at the office of Mrs. Claus?

Elf Crash Murphy: I'll tell you in two words: cookies and eggnog. Mrs. Claus is doing a taste test on variations to her recipes today and I just had to volunteer for that.

Elf Frank: Is this the last event Mrs. Claus is holding before she takes off for Canada?

Elf Crash: Yes, and I think she did this taste testing because she's got big eggnog plans in Canada next week.

Elf Frank: Crash, this is one of the earliest Thanksgiving celebrations on the calendar for the year. Are folks there ready for eggnog already? I thought Canada was all about coffee and ginger ale.

Elf Crash: Oh they love that stuff but they're practically silly about the eggnog. Some call it goofy names like Moose Milk or Nectar of the Hen. And they have some funky flavors of eggnog in Canada, too. Pumpkin eggnog, Candy Cane Eggnog, Fruit Cake eggnog and even Bacon eggnog.

Elf Frank: Bacon eggnog? That sounds disgusting.

Elf Crash: Don't be so quick to dismiss it, Frank. You ever have bacon and eggs?

Elf Frank: Well, yes, of course.

Elf Crash: Have a little liquid bacon and eggs for Christmas and then come back and tell me it's disgusting, Frank. That stuff sells like hot cakes.

Elf Frank: Now you've made me hungry for breakfast, Crash. Thanks for that rundown on eggnog in Canada. For the North Pole Radio News, where we like our eggnog straight, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh reporting for SantaUpdate.com on the Kringle Radio Network.
