

Elf Frank Myrrh: Hello again from the North Pole News Desk, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh of North Pole Radio News. More news from Santa's workshop as elves from other departments are being ushered in to help improve production. Here to discuss that with us from Santa's Workshop is Elf Crash Murphy. Crash, is this a good thing that so many elves without workshop experience are being sent there to help out?

Elf Crash Murphy: I think it's a great thing. Not all of them will be able to do everything that the workshop does, but they can do some things and all those extra hands have to be helping things out, Frank. I think this is very positive news.

Elf Frank: Personally, I'd be afraid to take on that kind of elf work, Crash. I'd lose a thumb or something.

Elf Crash: I don't think they are going to make these elves do things they don't know how to do or things that wouldn't be safe for them, Frank. And these elves will still be asked to do their regular jobs wherever they can. This is a very together effort, Frank.

Elf Frank: What about you, Crash? Will you be giving any extra time to the workshop? You used to fix tape dispensers in the Wrapping Department. I know you've got experience doing things with your hands.

Elf Crash: I've been putting a few hours in, Frank. I sweep up a little. Take out the trash. Do some snow shoveling. And one night Elf Bernard put me on the line squirting Gak into tubes and containers. That was messy fun for a while.

Elf Frank: Is that what they are looking for? Elves to do more of the smaller stuff?

Elf Crash: They are looking for anyone who can help in anyway, Frank. Nobody is left to stand idle. If an elf shows up over there to help, they put them to work right away, Frank. It's very efficient and it's helping a great deal.

Elf Frank: Okay, Crash, you convinced me. I'll head over there and see if I can't hand out sandwiches or something. From the North Pole news desk, where we want to help Santa's workshop too, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh reporting for SantaUpdate.com on the Kringle Radio Network.
