

Elf Frank Myrrh: Greetings once again from the North Pole news desk, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh of North Pole Radio News. The emergency efforts by North Pole Flight Command in directing both sleighs of the North Pole Air Force and ships of the North Pole Navy to shuttle needed supplies to Santa's workshop continues. Joining us from Flight Command with an update on those efforts is our eye in the sky reporter Elf Crash Murphy. Crash, they've been at it for weeks, when will this effort to bring supplies be over?

Elf Crash Murphy: It won't be much longer, Frank. As we have reported before they have brought so much stuff that they are having a hard time finding room for it all. So it's slowing down, for sure. I think pretty soon we will see a reverse of the flow of goods.

Elf Frank: What do you mean by a reverse of the flow of goods?

Elf Crash: The stuff comes in to make toys and then the toys once made go to wrapping, then to distribution, then they get loaded on ships and the navy takes them to warehouses in each sector, where they await the traditional Christmas Eve airlift plan to supply Santa as he gets around the world.

Elf Frank: We cover a bit of that detail during our Tracking Santa Around the World radio show each Christmas Eve. Does that effort look to be different this year?

Elf Crash: It might just a little bit. It's hard to say right now because we don't know how much the Workshop will be left to produce once Santa takes off on Christmas, Frank. We have a couple of months but the nature of thing is really unknown right now.

Elf Frank: Has anything been said about when the reindeer will return to the North Pole for the Reindeer Games? We've got some folks emailing concerns that the games might be canceled this year due to the Crisis in Santa's workshop.

Elf Crash: Nobody I've talked to has said anything about that and I know the Reindeer Operations Department fully expects the Games to go forward on the 10th of November, Frank. I'm if something like that happens it'll be all over the news.

Elf Frank: Which is why it is important to keep your radio dial tuned to Kringle Radio and North Pole Radio News.

Elf Crash: You're gonna be famous, Frank.

Elf Frank: I hope not. Thanks for that update from Flight Command, Crash. For North Pole Radio News, where we're in full Christmas mode already, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh reporting for SantaUpdate.com on the Kringle Radio Network.
