

Elf Frank Myrrh: Greetings from the News Desk at the North Pole, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh of North Pole Radio News. Another day of the reindeer games is down and what a thriller it has been, especially for fans of Donner, who completes the day with the slim margin of victory in total points. Joining me from the field house at Kringle Park is our eye in the sky reporter Elf Crash Murphy. Crash, they didn't make it easy on Donner today did they?

Elf Crash Murphy: No, he was challenged all day and the competition was pretty fierce. But at this point it is hard to think anyone deserves these games more than Donner right now. He's been at the top all the way along and it doesn't matter that he's winning by razor thin margins.

Elf Frank: Donner is so stoic, Crash, likely the most disciplined of Santa's reindeer. Do you have any idea of how he's feeling at this point in the games?

Elf Crash: No, we really don't. Win or lose you're always going to get the same response from Donner. It's not like last year when Rudolph won. Every race he ran and came out on top in his nose lit up like the 4th of July. And he just couldn't hide it, Frank. Donner is a stone cold winner, and you'll never know how pumped he is about anything. But I can tell you right now, he's pumped, Frank. Big time.

Elf Frank: How can you tell, Crash?

Elf Crash: When people meet Donner for the first time they usually talk about how regal he looks. He's light in his step, his back is always arched, his head is held high. There's confidence there, but not pride. He's not walking to impress anyone but himself, Frank. And when Donner is feeling really good there's like a light that shines from him. And right now, I'm telling you, I've watched Donner now for decades, and he's glowing, Frank.

Elf Frank: So you're saying there's no other reindeer there out-shining Donner right now?

Elf Crash: There are a lot of great reindeer here, Frank. And we're seeing great competition. But nobody can hold a candle to Donner this year.

Elf Frank: Okay, Crash. The smart sugar cookie bet is on Donner. He's been in the lead here at the games since the beginning and he emerges victorious today. From the North Pole where every reindeer is a winner, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh reporting for SantaUpdate.com on the Kringle Radio Network.
