

Elf Frank Myrrh: Greetings from the North Pole news desk, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh of North Pole Radio News. An emergency meeting of the Elf Supervisors was held at North Pole Flight Command today, requiring each of those supervisors to leave their Regional Tracking Center. That normally doesn't happen in the months of November and December. Joining us from Flight Command to talk about this is the International Director of Santa Trackers, Elf Crash Murphy. Crash, who called this meeting?

Elf Crash Murphy: Ultimately, Santa did, Frank. He wasn't there for it, of course, but after long discussions with both me and Elf Roger Star we felt it would be best to have a face to face sit down with the Supes.

Elf Frank: What's the problem? If Santa's workshop is late or if it isn't doesn't change tracking Santa for Santa does it?

Elf Crash: It might. We have to prepare for every eventuality. Think about the cascading effect of things come Christmas Eve, Frank. If Santa takes off on time and gets through Sectors 1,2 and 3 without issues the world will see no different. But, if he's delivering in Europe and he gets word that the workshop is still trying to get out toys and that he cannot deliver to North and South America until they are done, what's he going to do. Well, he's going to wait, Frank. And if he waits, tracker elves are going to wait. So you see all the issues now involved with that?

Elf Frank: I do. And I think we can talk more about those as each of the possibilities are discovered by you and the team at Flight Command. For now, let's focus on keeping trackers better informed. In doing that we turn to an elf reporter from SantaTrackers.net, Elf Westover, to tell us what tracker elves need to know today.

Elf Westover: Trackers around the world: version 5 of Santa's sleigh was ordered and will be delivered for testing by November 17th. 39 days are remaining before Santa's launch. Make sure to listen to news from Santa Update, SantaTrackers.net, and North Pole Flight Command for certain information that you missed. This is Elf Westover signing off, wishing you a Merry Christmas and remember, stay jolly.

Elf Crash: I just want to say I really appreciate the work that Elf Westover is doing and that you're spreading his news work to the radio updates, Frank. I think going forward this is going to add a lot to our news coverage and will go far to help those looking to track Santa for Santa.

Elf Frank: Thanks Crash and I think the same. Our thanks go out to Elf Westover for his perspective and welcome him to North Pole Radio News. From the North Pole, where we can never have enough news reporters, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh reporting for SantaUpdate.com on the Kringle Radio Network.
