

Elf Frank Myrrh: Greetings once again from the North Pole news desk, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh of North Pole Radio News. There is a mix of feelings resting on worried elves at the North Pole who split their concerns over the situation in Santa's workshop and possibly missing the events of Thanksgiving this year. Reporting now from the North Pole Events Center, where the final committee meeting of the Thanksgiving Festivities Council was held today, is Elf Crash Murphy. Crash, why all this angst among the elves?

Elf Crash Murphy: Frank, I think it is just some misplaced and over thought ideas about the crisis in Santa's workshop and maybe some guilt some are feeling about having a good time when so much work needs to be done.

Elf Frank: What does the committee suggest we do about it?

Elf Crash: Well, like most committees a lot of speeches were made, some ideas were tossed around and nothing got done as usual. I would have said something but I'm not sure they would listen to me.

Elf Frank: Why, Crash? What solution did you have to offer?

Elf Crash: We just need a little Christmas spirit going on, Frank. We need to have fun. We should be positive and hopeful and merry and bright – just like Christmas itself.

Elf Frank: And what do you suggest elves and believers do in order to accomplish that?

Elf Crash: Well, for starters, our friends over at MyMerryChristmas.com have this thing called the Gobble Contest going on Frank. I went over there today and listened to that recording of a gobble contest from a couple of years ago and it cracked me up, Frank. You just call in and give your best turkey gobble, then they play it on the radio or something and people vote on who the best gobbler was.

Elf Frank: Gobbling is the answer, Crash?

Elf Crash: No, you dense elf you, not gobbling. Fun! Laughter! Doing something a little silly for the sake of celebrating Thanksgiving and sharing with others. It puts all that pressure and worry and stress in perspective. We're going to be okay – just get gobbling.

Elf Frank: Ok, other than going to mymerrychristmas.com to record yourself sounding like a mad turkey what else do you suggest?

Elf Crash: Well, all the fun stuff like the Gobble contest going on. Send in art for Santa at SantaUpdate.com. Decorate a bike for the Elf Parade on Thursday. Put up your Christmas tree. Listen to Kringle Radio. Send a wish list to Santa. C'mon people, let's get some merry going.

Elf Frank: Ok, Crash. You're on. If you'll gobble, I'll gobble. For North Pole Radio News, where we will do just about anything to make people merry, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh saying gobble-gobble-gobble for SantaUpdate.com on the Kringle Radio Network.
