

Elf Frank Myrrh: Greetings from the North Pole News Desk, this is Elf Frank Myrrh with a North Pole Radio News Special Report. Santa Claus has late this evening safely returned to the North Pole to celebrate Thanksgiving. Joining me from the Sleigh Barn is Elf Crash Murphy, who evidently witnessed Santa's return. Crash, was it difficult for Santa coming in?

Elf Crash Murphy: No, not really. I think a lot of precautions were taken for safety's sake and for the peace of mind of Mrs. Claus, but his flight went well and ended nicely.

Elf Frank: Crash, Santa makes it a point to come home for Thanksgiving every year and it is usually a brief visit. Do you know what his schedule is tomorrow?

Elf Crash: He'll be up early to sit in the reviewing stand with Mrs. Claus for the Thanksgiving Day Elf Parade, and like everyone else he'll participate in other activities of the day. After the parade is the Turkey Bowl, and Santa loves to officiate that football game. He's known for throwing a lot of flags and blowing whistles early, just to mess with people. He'll be at the big luncheon where we will have the traditional Thanksgiving Feast and then it's time for the annual Christmas Light walkabout which, Santa, of course, leads. Finally he makes his way to the atrium at the Workshop to declare Operation Merry Christmas and it's delivery phase open. Then he gets back on a sleigh and heads out to meet with believers around the world until Christmas, Frank.

Elf Frank: I don't know how Santa has the energy to keep of that kind of pace. Thanks for that report, Crash. Let's turn now to reporter Elf Shine who tells us what trackers need to know right now.

Elf Shine: Hello trackers around the world, this is Elf Shine filling in for Elf Westover. Tracker elves need to be sending in reports. We are in the pre-delivery phase of Operation Merry Christmas. I hope you find this news interesting and have a merry, merry Christmas.

Elf Frank: Thank you, Elf Shine and like you we're all excited for the next phase of Operation Merry Christmas. For North Pole Radio News, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh reporting for SantaUpdate.com on the Kringle Radio Network.
