

Elf Frank Myrrh: Greetings once again from the North Pole News Desk, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh of North Pole Radio News. North Pole Flight Command today confirmed that the Sleigh Department is rushing the construction of hundreds of new sleighs to help efforts to shuttle completed presents from the North Pole to staging areas around the world. Joining me from the Reindeer Department to discuss this is our eye in the sky reporter, Elf Crash Murphy. Crash, if this story is about new sleighs why are you reporting from the Reindeer Department?

Elf Crash: Because those new sleighs are going to be really fancy paper weights if we don't have reindeer to pull them. If there are hundreds of new sleighs coming they are going to need thousands of reindeer and I want to find out if the Reindeer guys are getting thousands of new reindeer ready.

Elf Frank: Okay, I see where you are going with this, Crash. Good call. What have you found out?

Elf Crash: Frank, you wouldn't believe how many reindeer these guys are getting ready. I am serious about it. You wouldn't believe it. The number is staggering.

Elf Frank: Are you suggesting that the effort to get the stuff cranking out of Santa's workshop is bigger than we anticipated?

Elf Crash: That's exactly what I'm suggesting, Frank. That means the next few weeks, between now and Christmas morning, it might be the best time in recorded history to see a flying sleigh in the skies. There are going to be thousands up there.

Elf Frank: Okay, Crash, that sounds exciting and hopeful. From the North Pole, where just hearing the jingle of bells is exciting, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh reporting for SantaUpdate.com on the Kringle Radio Network.
