

Santa Visits RTCs

Elf Frank Myrrh: Hello again from the North Pole News desk, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh of North Pole Radio News. No sooner did North Pole Flight Command announce the opening of the Regional Tracking Center for Sector 5 in Mexico that Santa decided to go there. Going with him is the International Director of Santa Trackers, Elf Crash Murphy, who joins us now from Flight Command. Crash, it sounds like this was a last minute decision.

Elf Crash Murphy: It really was, Frank. I was meeting with Santa very early this morning in his perch in Flight Command and he was looking at some pictures we posted the last few years at SantaTrackers.net in the Elf Community of tracking centers. Santa observed that they looked different than the first ones he set up years ago and he openly wondered how those centers look today. I visited the tracking center in Sector 1 last week and it's my goal to get to all of them before August so I invited Santa to come with me to my scheduled visit to Costa Rica and he added on Sector 5 in Mexico late last night when the word broke they were open.

Elf Frank: What do you expect from these visits?

Elf Crash: Well I go to meet the elves there and to see if they have any needs. I gotta do this now before things get too busy during the season. Santa might have some ulterior motives for going but what he told me is he just wants to see them. Santa has been way more involved at Flight Command, as you have reported, Frank, and elves at Flight Command like some changes he's made, so maybe that will carryover to our visits in Mexico and Costa Rica.

Elf Frank: How long of a trip will this be?

Elf Crash: Not very long, Frank. I'll finish up in the studio with you for the podcast this morning, then Santa and I will take off. I expect to be gone just a day or two. It's really up to Santa.

Elf Frank: Ok, Crash. Very interesting development, we'll see what comes from it. From the North Pole news desk, where I've never visited a Regional Tracking Center in my life, I'm Elf Frank Myrrh reporting for SantaUpdate.com on the Kringle Radio Network.
